ABOUT THE PROGRAMME

Opole University in cooperation with local companies and business organisations have created an innovative programme that allows the undergraduates to link their academic growth with practical application of knowledge and skills in business settings.

Students learn:
- how to function in an international manufacturing company by developing their skills in analysis, planning, management, economics, or IT.
- They learn to use English in speech and writing at C1 level of CEFR for languages.

The programme comprises several business subjects, such as:
- project managmenet,
- change management,
- international commerce and trade law,
- business negotiations,
- business relationships, to name a few.

A unique advantage of the practical profile study programme is offering the students two semesters of Internship – amouting to the total of 960 hours, spent at a company or institution of students' choice.

FUTURE CAREER PROSPECTS

Undergraduates can seek employment in:
- small, medium, or large manufacturing companies,
- design and administrative entities,
- private enterprises,
- corporations,
- business institutions,
- in planning, logistics, or production and enterprise project management divisions, especially where advanced command of general and business English is a standard job requirement.

Students finish their studies with:
- strong communication skills in English in writing and speaking at C1
- the ability to search for information in various sources, to analyze and synthesize information, and to work effectively both independently and in teams
